

Panel

Professor Jill Francis

Jill specialises in behavioural approaches to implementation science, a field which aims to identify the most effective ways to support changes in healthcare practice to improve health care and health outcomes. A particular focus is the methodological approach to the development and evaluation of complex interventions that has been developed by the UK Medical Research Council since 2000. This includes applying methods and models of behaviour change, developed largely in the field of health psychology. Jill works with multidisciplinary research teams in the UK, wider Europe, Canada and Australia. She has been involved in funded research projects to the value of around $40 million and has published around 200 papers in peer-reviewed journals.

Yong Loo Lin School of Medicine,
National University of Singapore

Executive Director, Centre for Evidence and Implementation
(CEI), Singapore/Australia/UK

Robyn Mildon, PhD, is an internationally recognised figure in the field of implementation science, evidence synthesis and knowledge translation, and program and policy evaluations in health, education and human services. She is the Founding Executive Director of the Centre for Evidence and Implementation (CEI www.ceiglobal.org), a global social purpose organisation whose work now spans across 7 countries including Singapore. She is an Adjunct Associate Professor at Monash University, a Visiting Professor at the Yong Loo Lin School of Medicine, National University of Singapore, Co-Director of the recently established Behavioural and Implementation Science Interventions (BISI), National University of Singapore, and Chair of the upcoming Evidence and Implementation Summit 2021 (www.eisummit.org).

Over her career, Robyn's work has helped to advance the implementation of better evidence in policy and practice settings, improving the quality and effectiveness of health, education and human services. She has been a keynote speaker at multiple events around the globe and designed and led a number of workshops to train students, policy makers and practitioners in implementation science and evaluation methods. Robyn has authored or co-authored multiple peer-reviewed publications, commissioned evidence synthesis reviews and book chapters. She also led the design and delivery of the Specialist Certificate in Implementation Science at the University of Melbourne and is a Co-Author of an edited book Implementation Science 3.0 (Springer, 2020).
