Course Description

Videos have been used widely in medical education. Research shows that the use of video in medical education supports teaching and learning in many settings. To optimize learning outcomes, video use should be guided by educational theory. In this workshop, the educational theories and implementation strategies related to video use for medical education will be reviewed. By the end of the workshop, you will gain a better understanding of the following topics:

1. Why should videos be used in medical education?
2. How to use videos effectively during lectures?
3. How to use videos effectively in online learning modules?
4. What can videos do to facilitate teaching and educational outcomes?
5. What should be the key educational content of videos?
6. What criteria can be used to select existing videos available online?
7. How to design your own videos?
