Award of Emeritus Professorship 2023

Prof Oh Min Sen, Vernon

Division of Advanced Internal Medicine, NUH

Department of Medicine, NUS

Prof Oh has led the Division of General Medicine and Clinical Pharmacology in the Department of Medicine, NUH, establishing the foundation for other medical specialities to develop. It is notable that he was vital to establish the Centre for Drug Administration, which evolved into the Health Products Regulation Division of the Health Sciences Authority. He has been an exceptional educator, having taught general medicine, clinical pharmacology, and preventive cardiovascular medicine at both under and post-graduate levels. He continues to contribute significantly to education, actively supporting the Advanced Internal Medicine Exit examination as a chief examiner for senior residency exit examinations, besides playing a vital role in contributing to MRCP/MMED examinations.

Award of Honorary Fellowship 2023

Assoc Prof Lee Jon Choon, Evan

Division of Nephrology, NUH

Department of Medicine, NUS

A/Prof Lee has been instrumental in developing every aspect of renal care at the Division of Nephrology, including Peritoneal Dialysis, Haemodialysis, Kidney transplantation, Glomerulonephritis and Chronic Kidney Disease Care. He has led and set up NUH's haemodialysis and peritoneal dialysis services, in addition to the first outpatient high-dependency haemodialysis programme in Singapore, which took care of the highest-risk kidney failure cases with dialysis-related hypotension and cardiac diseases. It is also notable that he has gone beyond medical to train nursing and allied health students, which shows his vision of education to serve the multidisciplinary demands of today's healthcare.

Award of Honorary Fellowship 2023

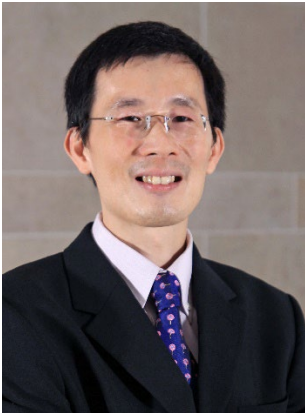

Assoc Prof Thai Ah Chuan

Division of Endocrinology, NUH

Department of Medicine, NUS

A/Prof Thai has significantly contributed to clinical services, education and research in diabetes mellitus. Having had set up the Diabetes Clinic with one-stop services for patients with diabetes mellitus, she has helped to train the diabetes nurse educators and encouraged the creation of Advanced Nurse Practitioners in the outpatient diabetes clinic to co-managing patients with diabetes. She has also contributed to building vision, capacity and capabilities in diabetes care, in addition to developing clinical care for pregnant women with diabetes or gestational diabetes. Through her guidance, there is a clinical pathway for rapid referral and management of these patients in the outpatient and inpatient settings.
