

Giving to the Next Generation

I am Muhammad Fadhli Bin Mohamad Ikbal, and I am a third year medical student.

Thank you for your generosity. It will benefit needy students and support meaningful education and research efforts that will improve the health and well-being of Singaporeans and the greater community.

The effect of your giving is exponential.

Our funding needs for 2016 and beyond.

A Bursaries for underprivileged students

The School estimates that one in four students will face financial difficulties that could jeopardise their medical studies. As a school, we are committed to ensuring that no deserving student is denied a medical education and more bursaries are required to meet the increasing need for undergraduate financial aid.

A named bursary can be established with a minimum expendable gift of S$45,000 or a minimum endowed gift of S$150,000.

B Postgraduate Scholarships

Your gift will help admit more outstanding candidates who will work on innovating solutions that will help to improve healthcare in Singapore.

A named scholarship can be established with a minimum expendable gift of S$45,000 or a minimum endowed gift of S$150,000.

C Professorships

Professorships will help us to recruit and retain renowned experts to teach and mentor doctors who will shape the future of healthcare.

A named professorship can be established with a minimum expendable gift of S$600,000 or a minimum endowed gift of S$3 million.

D Research Priorities

Funding is needed to support collaborative research with institutions, agencies and universities that will improve healthcare in Singapore. Research efforts will be coordinated through some of these centres:

- Centre for Personalised and Precision Health (CPPH)
- Centre for Health Service and Policy Research (CHSPR)
- Centre for Functional Ageing (CFA)
- Centre for Healthcare Innovation and Medical Engineering (CHIME)
- National University Centre for Organ Transplantation (NUCOT)
- Centre for Medical Education (CenMED)

A named research fund can be established with a minimum expendable gift of S$150,000 (minimum of S$50,000 per annum for three years) or a minimum endowed gift of S$625,000.

In recognition of significant gifts, the School may offer naming opportunities (programmes, buildings or facilities) that will allow you to leave your own legacy or honour a family member, friend, or organisation.

As an approved Institution of a Public character (IPC), all donations to NUS from now until 31 December 2018 will be eligible for a 250% tax deduction.

Your support makes all the difference. Please give generously.

SINGAPORE TAX RESIDENTS WILL RECEIVE
A 250% TAX DEDUCTION FOR GIFTS MADE
FROM NOW TO 31 DECEMBER 2018.
